What's your party trick? Actually being able to have an interesting conversation with someone.

What's on your iPod at the moment? You Am I, Emiliana Torrini, Sarah Blasko and the Run Lola Run soundtrack. No photos. No games.

What was your childhood nickname and why? Julius Caesar. We were studying history at the time.

What's your coffee order? Three-quarter latte – how annoying is that? And full-cream cow's milk, please.

What's your feel-good ritual? Nutella with a spoon. Discuss.

Fave book of all-time? Impossible question. But at the moment, the Millennium series by Stieg Larsson. Getting a bit bored now in book three but I need to see how it ends.

Do you have a catchphrase? "How hilarious" or "How hideous", depending on the situation. Obviously.

What would be your last meal? Something very, very "slow food" – osso bucco or something – to buy me time.

If the police came knocking at your door, what would they be there for? The number plates on my car are a little faded.

Worst fashion crime you've committed? A hot pink strapless terry towelling dress I bought from Dolly magazine in 1981.

What would your friends say are your best traits? Enthusiasm, loyalty, generosity.

Dream holiday or destination? At the moment it is Scandinavia.

If you had a time machine, what year would you travel to and why? Paris in the 1940s for the writing, fashion and music. Possibly not for the war.

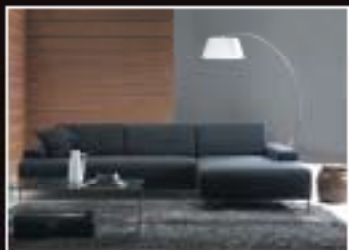

Who makes you starstruck? Meryl Streep. I met her briefly and just gasped. She is the reason I became a performer.
